He Stole Steadly for Six Tears - Had Confederates in New York, Philadelphia and Ohio, Who Becaved the Stolen Ware and Shared the Profits-A Numbur of Arrests.

TREATON, N. J., Nov. 10,-The arrest of W. W. Sweet, involce clerk of the Arsenal Postery here, brings to light one of the greatest conspiracies known in Weston since the robbery of Ott and Brewer in a similar manner about ten liwcet had upwards of ten confederates, who were receiving the goods and disposing of them in other cities at less than cost to manufacture, and although the amount taken cannot be exactly learned owing to the time that the operations have been going on, Ju-Mayer, the proprietor, says that it will reach $100,000.

Morris Meers and Frank Work Shafter of Philosophila are under areas in that city, and Sweet, his wife and Issue Lovy are issued the bars in Fronton, on the charge of being concerned in et apparently had entered into a big comparacy with outsiders to rule his employer. According to a statement by him he did not suggest the thing first, but creckery desires came to him and orierest to divide profits if he would snot them extra goods when they sent in order. It is assument that if he sent in order. It is apparent that if he had not been cought just at this time he soon would have caused the failure of the pottery. More than $1.200 worth of goods, which were not entered on the books, were sent out by him last week. "Sweet's mayor of defranding Mass."

Sweet's manner of defrauding Mayer was a common one, which would not be thought of by Mayer. When an order would be sent in for $10 worth of goods Bwise would send it to the packing room with orders to have it packed. The goods would then be shipped and the or-der returned to film. Instead of mark-ing it "shipped" he would allow it to lie on his desk for a day or two, when his attention would be called to it, and he would again ship the same order. Thus would two orders be sent to the same person for the price of one. This he has done as often as four times on a

The stealings last year amounted to something enormous, and added to a number of had speculations, involved Mayer heavily in debt. Mayer called his men together one day and told them that he knew that goods were disappearing from the place, but that he was unable to find out who was stealing them. He asked them if they would not let up on him, saying that if they did not they would ruin him. All professed innocease, but the robberts continued for a time. Then they suddenly coased. The stealings last year amounted to

About five months ago Mayer was in Philadelphia taking orders for his goods when he was surprised to see some ware from his pottery in an auction store. He knew that he had not been selling he knew that he that not been senting anything in that city, and at once sus-ported that it was some of the stolen goods. He went into the place and quoted the prices on goods of exactly the same make, but they informed him that they could buy them at a price which Mayer said was sixty cents lower than be could afford to make them for. Ho was compelled after this to sell his goods twenty per cent lower than usual in order to keep his trads.

Soon after his discovery of the goods in Fallade phia Mayer informed the chief of police of Tranton. When the story was told the police could namelly be-

Official Reports of the Influx of Chinese.

EIGHT THOUSAND ARE COMING.

Secretary of the Treasury to Make a Special Report to Congress-

Extensive Smuggling of Opium and Dufinble Goods-Startling Evidence from the Montana Customs Collector - Chiuese Crossing the Horder With Impunity-Larger Appropriations Needed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 .- The Treasury Department is in receipt of official reparts of recent date from Treasury special agents in the Northwest, giving testimony of a startling nature relative to the extensive smuggling of dutiable merchandise and opium into the United States from Canada and British Colum bis, of evasions of the customs laws and of the influx into this country of large numbers of Chinamen.

The expose of the wholestle violations of the customs laws and chermons depredations upon the revenues due to the unprotected condition of the cus-toms frontier, has awakened the Tronsury Department to the situation. The reports of the special agents who have been called upon to investigate the uni-ter will be embedied in a special com-munication which the Secretary of the Treasury will make to Congress when he asks for an appropriation sufficient to enable him to check the rapidly grow-log evil of smuggling.

The United States Collector of Customs for the District of Montana, with headquarters at Fort Banton, writes to Secretary Foster as follows:

"I beg to inform the department that there is an alarming lucrouse of arrivals of Chinese in the adjacent foreign terri-tory north of here with the United States as their ultimate objective point. The force in this district at present is totally inadequate for their exclusion. We were fortunate in capturing the first considerable number who made the attemps to enter, but cannot count upon circumstances favoring us siways."

The Collector's reference to favorable circumstances relates to the fact that a stroke of lightning killed the smurgler who was guiding this band of Chinamen across the prairies, and the poor Celestials, without a guide and ignorant of the country, walked plump into the Collector's hands, without any effort on the part of the customs officers.

Continuing, the Collector sava:

Continuing, the Collector says:
"What is required is a large force of mounted men stationed at intervals along the line of the Great Northern Railway in communication by with this office. To be materially fective in enforcing the provisions of the Chinese Exclusion act, there should be established four new stations besides Sweet Grass (at present the only sta-tion upon the Montana border)—namely, one at Blackfoot, where the 113th merone at Blackfoot, where the 113th merdian crosses the railroad; one at or near where the 111th crosses; one at Chinook, on the 193th, and one at Poplar Creek, between the 195th and 193th meridians.
At these points prominent roads or trails cross the border and are at such distance as to be independent of each other.
"These stations should be supplied with three mounted men, together with a set of harness and buckboard so that a set of Barness and buckboard so that inspectors may be enabled to carry pro-vi-lons and bedding for a journey of two or more days if necessary. Upon receipt of information of smugglers two men hould start out in whatever direction they may be advised parties are coming. There is very little use in one man going alone and attempting to make a capture on the prairie. Chinese and smugglers usually travel in companies of from two to five and upward, and one man cannot be expected to cope with a crowd. It seems to be absolutely necessary to intercept Chinese while on their way across the border in order to make a case

"This is the maximum force that would be required to enforce the laws against Uninese in this district east of make against Chinese in this district east of the Rockies there is a proposition that will require attention very soon.

(These inspectors should be men of bravery, acquainted with the country and the work expected of them; fearless and competent to effect a capture at all hazards. The Chinese seem to have sudhazards. The Uninees seem to have sun-denly found a large opening here, and if the United States undertakes seriously to exclude them, some such force as I have outlined must be supplied."

Accompanying this communication from the Collector of Customs is a letter from Chinese Inspector Cummings, at-tached to the Fort Benton district, who tached to the Port Deaton district, who states that he had just returned from Vancouver, B. C., the port of entry of the Chinese intruders, and that he learned while there the startling fact that nearly 8,000 Chinamen had landed at Vancouver since Jan. 1 of this year.

So the other day, Friday, we think, she induced her husband to take it down and fire it off. "There's something behind it." That's what you think, perhaps, when you read that the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer $500 reward for an incurable case of Catarrh.
